

Women's Voices for Child Care Project

GAYC's Women's Voices for Child Care shares the stories of real women and their families who seek safe, affordable, nurturing and learning environments for their children.

Are you unable to work or go to school because you cannot pay the cost of child care?

DID YOU KNOW?

The federal government has acknowledged the need for child care services to strengthen the economy through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA).

DID YOU KNOW? Georgia is expected to receive more than $72 million as a result of ARRA to support and improve the quality of child care for working families.

JOIN OTHER WOMEN

JOIN other women and the Georgia Association on Young Children in our journey to promote funding, policies and practices that help women work and children succeed.

SHARE YOUR STORY with GAYC so that we can make sure our public officials hear your voice. Help speak out for the quality affordable child care our families and children deserve.
